THE TILTON-BEECHER TRIAL.

The great scandal case in Brooklyn has passed the first stage in the examination of Moulton, and one of the great contests of the trial has arisen on the admissibility of Tilton as a witness in his own behalf. Moulton was on the stand nearly eleven days, and the printed proceedings of each day in detail would nearly fill our whole paper. We have therefore made no attempt to give a detailed report of the trial. Moulton's direct testimony was substantially a repetition of his published statements, and the principal interest was directed to his cross-examination, which was protracted and searching. The witness displayed remarkable self-possession under an ordeal of unusual severity, and showed a surprising power of memory whenever recollection served to strengthen the cause of the plaintiff. On the cross-examination, however, his memory frequently failed him on points of importance to the defendant, and his carefully-worded replies frequently baffled his questioners. In some cases it was only by a long and persistent series of questions that the counsel were enabled to extort the desired answer, and to the unprofessional mind much of the examination seemed of slight importance. It was evident, however, that the defence intend impeaching his testimony by persons to whom he admits having asserted Beecher's innocence, and that they will contend that the famous "letter of contrition" has been tampered with and altered for the purpose of implicating Beecher. One of the few important facts first brought out on the examination is that when Moulton obtained the "retraction" from Mr. Beecher, he exhibited to him the letter from Mrs. Tilton entreating that both the "retraction" and "recantation" should be destroyed. This was the "pistol interview," and in the trial Moulton admitted that, in his printed statements, he had suppressed any reference to having shown Mrs. Tilton's letter to Mr. Beecher at that interview. Near the close of his examination Moulton received in court the unexpected news of his mother's death, but insisted upon concluding his part of the case.

Moulton was followed by Mrs. Bradshaw whose testimony was not important, and by his partner, Franklin Woodruff, who corroborated a portion of Moulton's statements. He testified to being present at an interview between Moulton, Tilton and Gen Tracy, with reference to the Woodhull publication, but his memory proved quite defective on important points under cross-examination. He testified that Tilton told Tracy that he charged Beecher with adultery, but did not mention Mrs Tilton's name in connection therewith. There were doubtless many points brought out by counsel on either side which will be given greater significance as the trial progresses, than now appears.

The first important contest between the distinguished counsel was precipitated on Friday by the calling of Tilton as a witness by his own lawyers. This episode had evidently been anticipated and Mr. Evarts was promptly on his feet with a protest and powerful argument against the admission of this witness. He was followed on the other side by Roger A. Pryor and William A. Beach, to whom he made a brief rejoinder on Friday afternoon when the Court adjourned to await the decision of the Judge Monday morning. Counsel on both sides cited numerous authorities in support of their arguments, Tilton's lawyers claiming his admission under a State law of 1867, giving parties in interest a right to testify, while Mr. Evarts contended that the common law, on the highest ground of public policy prohibited husband and wife from testifying against one another in such a case, and that the law of 1867 does not remove the disability of the parties to this trial. Tilton's Lawyers strenuously urged that it would be unjust to permit the alleged seducer to testify while the lips of the husband are sealed. To this Mr Evarts replied that the husband sought to brand his wife with infamy, and while her testimony would simply be for the vindication of herself and children and not criminating against her husband, the mere fact that he has a money interest in the suit disables her from speaking in her own behalf. Mr. Evarts concluded his argument in these words.

"And yet it is argued that the common law which shuts the mouth of the witness who knows the truth, and whom the law presumes innocent until she is proved guilty, says she cannot defend herself because she is the wife of this husband, and he can destroy her because he is the husband of this wife. I apprehend the common law has been guilty of no such folly since its foundations were laid, and on this, if your Honor please, we submit the proposition.

The decision of Judge Neilson is awaited with much interest, as both sides have evidently regarded the point as of serious importance in the trial.

USE AND ABUSE OF RULES.

In discussing the recent dead-lock in the National House of Representatives, the Democratic papers have sought to obscure the actual merits of the contest, by representing that the members of their party have legitimately employed their parliamentary privileges, and that the Republicans are seeking to break through time-honored rules for merely partisan purposes. This may deceive the superficial observer, but whoever looks directly into the heart of the matter must see that the question involved is whether a minority shall be permitted, at their discretion to prevent any legislation whatever. This is the real issue, and with such use of the present rules as has been made by the Democrats in this case, a House containing a Republican majority which should lack but one vote of two-thirds, might be prevented throughout an entire session from acting upon any measure of legislation. If it is urged that the rules have been in existence for many years without any serious demand for change in this regard, the answer is that the position assumed by the minority in this instance is entirely new, and that no such attempt at the complete throttling of the House was ever before made by any party. There has been more or less resort to filibustering by minorities at various times, to secure opportunities for speech-making or for offering amendments, or for obtaining some compromise in the form of a bill; but we can recall no other occasion when dilatory motions have been employed to prevent a measure from receiving any consideration. It remained for the representatives of a 'so-called' Democracy to so pervert the rules of the House from their legitimate purpose, as to enable a minority to override and set at defiance the Constitutional right of the majority to take action upon public measures.

The present case may be stated as follows:—A majority of the House desired to take up the civil rights bill and a motion was made to reconsider the vote by which the bill was recommitted. Such a motion takes precedence of all questions except a motion to adjourn or to fix a day for adjournment, which under the rules are always in order. The Democrats were determined that the majority should be prevented from taking any action whatever upon the subject, and accordingly during a continuous session of over forty-six hours they kept up a constant repetition of motions to adjourn, to fix a certain day, to amend by substituting some other day; protracting the time occupied in this frivolous manner by demanding first a vote by voices, then a count by marching between tellers, and finally a call of the roll for yeas and nays, on every point raised. The public will better appreciate the character of these proceedings by considering the fact that during the long session, while a majority were desirous of acting upon a public measure, motions to adjourn, etc., were voted down seventy-six times by yeas and nays, the lists containing nearly twenty-five thousand names. The minority met this civil rights bill on the very threshold of the House and refused it admission, in defiance of the spirit of the Constitution and the principle of government by a majority.

The rights of the House were emphatically asserted by Speaker Blaine in the following reply to a question from the floor:

"The Chair has frequently announced that the House of Representatives is competent by a majority vote to do what it pleases under the Constitution of the United States, and he will always maintain that ground.

And when the purpose of continuing the minority control indefinitely by the same filibustering tactics was developed by an inquiry as to whether dilatory motions could be interposed to prevent the majority from changing the rules, the Speaker promptly vindicated the self-control of the House in these clear-cut sentences:

"The right of each House to determine its rules is a constitutional right, given expressly by the Constitution. The rules are the creatures of that power. Of course they cannot be used to destroy the power. The House is incapable of divesting itself by any form of rule of the inherent constitutional power to exercise its functions. Therefore, the Chair has always, when a proposition to amend is before the House, refused to entertain dilatory motions. * * The House proceeds, therefore within its laws and through the regular rules made in pursuance of the Constitution, and it is the high function of the House by its constitutional power to change these rules whenever a majority deems fit.

With the disposition manifested by the majority to abuse their privileges, the question of amending the rules seems to be practically a question whether the minority shall be permitted to prevent any and all action by the majority upon any measure whatsoever, if the minority shall be so pleased; thus virtually giving the minority a negative control of the House of Representatives. In the present case the Democrats were not resisting any encroachments by the majority, or contesting for any principle save that of a dogged refusal to permit the House to legislate. There was no attempt to rush the bill through or to take undue advantage. On the contrary it was liberally proposed to grant the minority ample time for debate, and to afford full opportunity for all proper amendments. Indeed, it was distinctly proposed that if the Democrats would name any day for the consideration of the bill, the majority would accede to their wishes. The peremptory refusal of this offer plainly showed that the Democrats were determined that the bill should not be considered or acted upon at all at this session. If the will of the majority can thus be defied upon one measure it may be upon others; and it becomes plain that such a minority control cannot be tolerated.

We would not have the Republicans make any change in the rules to which they would be unwilling to submit when they are in the minority in the next House, but we claim that the majority of the present Congress are Constitutionally empowered to legislate and that it is their duty to provide such regulations as will prevent a factious obstruction of the exercise of legitimate functions. The amendment proposed last week was objectionable as applying only to the present session, and a number of Republicans opposed it as trenching closely upon the rights of the minority and possibly liable to facilitate the passage of lobby measures. We should earnestly deprecate any tinkering of the rules for merely partisan purposes, but the Democrats have demonstrated that some change is necessary to enable the House to proceed with the discharge of its duties. When the minority insist upon continuing senseless roll-calls for three days or three weeks in order to shut out entirely matters properly within the jurisdiction of a majority of the House, it is time to modify the rules so as to prevent an arbitrary abuse of privilege never before attempted. We understand that such a change has been the subject of thoughtful consideration among the leading members of the House, and while acting with a full knowledge that their own party will require all the proper safeguards of a minority at the next session, we believe that a rule can be framed which will prevent the repetition of such a scandal as that of the recent filibustering, while jeopardizing no public interest and impairing no parliamentary rights.

OBJECT OF THE WHITE LEAGUE. In the Louisiana investigation Captain Arthur W. Allen testified: "Is an officer in the Sixteenth Infantry, was stationed at Colfax last year; on arriving at Colfax made it a point to ascertain the necessity of keeping up that post, went through the country and conversed with the people generally; found, in conversation with Mr. Cosgrove, editor of the Natchitoches Vindicator, that there existed an organization known as the White League; the league was organized to work upon the fears of the negroes, every other method to secure their political support having failed; when the men who had been arrested and tried for the Colfax murders returned to Grant parish a congratulatory meeting was held by the white citizens."

The Lewiston Journal is permitted to make the following extract from a private letter from Wendell Phillips to Dr. Boyne of Winthrop. With respect to affairs at the South Mr. Phillips writes:

"You cannot, in my opinion, exaggerate the gravity of the future trouble. * * I think the wave is shifting—evident reaction is taking place, and we shall soon see the North stunned into sobriety. Two years will show such clear conspiracy on the part of Southern whites, as will open eyes here, and rally the needed party to resist. It seems to me we shall have inevitably to wait for that uprising."

PERSONAL. The Lincoln County News pays the following compliment to a gallant soldier and efficient public officer:

We refer with pleasure to the renomination of General James A. Hall, of Damariscotta, to the position of Collector of Customs of the District of Waldoboro'. This is General Hall's third appointment, he having first been nominated in 1866. He was then fresh from the battle fields of Virginia, where he earned a reputation which his eight years in the civil service has not tarnished. Under his administration the Waldoboro' Custom House has become one of the best in the State.

The King of Italy gave an audience to Garibaldi on Friday, and a cordial interview took place on the subject of the unhealthy condition of the Campagna.

GILES'

LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA.

A MESSAGE TO THE SUFFERING.

When a remedy is productive of such relief as to excel all other remedies in its curative results, it is a duty to make it known as generally as possible. This consideration has actuated the proprietor, WM. M. GILES, to bring before the public his LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA.

The remarkable cures it has effected classes it as one of the most important and valuable remedies ever discovered for the cure and relief of pain in any form. It cures Neuralgia, Face Ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, Chilblains, Sore Throat, Erysipelas, Bruises and Wounds of every nature, in which the effects of external applications are almost magical, and in which its internal administration is found to be most efficacious. Physicians prescribe it for their patients and accord it their unhesitating approval as an invaluable discovery.

The LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA is an essential appointment in all well regulated stables, and where large numbers of horses are provided for, and where there is a liability to the visitation of a class of epidemic diseases for which this preparation is a recognized remedy. No stable should be without it, for no stable can really be deemed safe that is not supplied with it.

We append a few of the many testimonials bearing testimony to the universal favor with which this medicine has been received by the public.

Testimonials.

In stiffness and soreness of the muscles and joints, rheumatic pains, I have experienced immediate relief from GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA

THOMAS BAKER, Wallack's Theatre

For headache, neuralgia, sore throat, inflamed joints of the feet, GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA gave immediate relief.

HENRY MAGONIGLE, Booth's Theatre

MR. WM. M. GILES, Chemist, 451 Sixth Avenue I suffered with rheumatic pains in my limbs and joints, and found no relief until I tried your LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA, with immediate relief. Am now cured. ROBERT H. SMITH,

Head Pantryman on board Steamer Jesse Hoyt.

GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA is a sure cure for ague in the breast, and removes all swellings and hard lumps. A NURSING MOTHER.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 7, 1874.

DR. GILES,—While on duty as fireman on engine 47, about ten miles from this city, on Shore Line Road, was accidentally thrown off against a rock, train under full head, about thirty-five miles an hour. Was very badly bruised. Your agent was on board. He furnished me with two bottles of LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA, from which I received the greatest possible benefit. In four days I was able to sit up, and am now ready to commence work. My aged mother also used the Liniment for rheumatism, which it cured. JOHN DAFFNEY

BARNUM'S HIPPODROME.—We have never found anything equal to GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA. Bruises, wounds, stiffness, lameness, pains in the muscles, swellings immediately disappear. It is just what we long wanted, and we now use nothing else. In fifty years' experience in Europe and America, I have never met anything like it.

L. B. WOODS,

Veterinary Surgeon, Barnum's Hippodrome.

NEW YORK, June 1st.

MR. WM. M. GILES, Chemist. Sir—Your new discovery, LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA, surpasses anything for splints, strains, lameness in the limbs or shoulders, &c., wind galls, and hard, bony swellings on the joints. It is truly marvelous

Yours very truly, RALPH OGLE,

Veterinary Surgeon, 320 West 25th St.

BOSTON, July 13, 1874.

MR. W. M. GILES—In the match between the Athletics of Philadelphia and the Boston Club, played July 13th, 1874, at Boston, I fell and displaced my left knee cap. Your agent fortunately happened to be present. He instantly applied your Liniment, and with instant relief.

HARRY C. SHAFFER, Boston Base Ball Club.

BOSTON, Sept. 14, 1874.

MR. WILLIAM M. GILES, Chemist: DEAR SIR—Your Agent, Mr. Guy B. Frazer, called on me early in July last to introduce your LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA. Being a skeptic in regard to the great variety of articles patent for the cure of all sorts of diseases, I had no faith in your Iodide, but, after a long discussion with your agent, it occurred to me that I had a horse I was using for private that had a shoe bile on his near forward leg. I told him if he thought it would remove that bunch, I would try it. Suffice it to say, I have used it very persistently till the present time, and I now find it nearly removed, and think it will shortly disappear entirely. From this trial of your remedy I cheerfully recommend its use to any one who has a horse or horses afflicted in this way. I would further say that, while using it for the above, the same horse started another bunch on the off leg; the Liniment was applied immediately, and the bunch has disappeared.

Saturday's Legislation—Public and Private Measures—A Lumber Monopoly—The Bangor Water Bill—Pensions to Soldiers Orphans, etc.

[SPECIAL TO WHIG AND COURIER.]

AUGUSTA, Jan. 30. In yesterday's despatch I omitted to state that Mr Morse, one of your worthy Bangor Representatives has been excused from further attendance during the session on account of poor health. Orders of inquiry were referred relating to … Sec. 2, Chap. 167 of the Laws of 1874 which provides that the close time of river fisheries shall not apply to the Kennebec, Androscoggin or Penobscot rivers or their tributaries, or to the St Croix river below the breakwater at the …; to amending the law relating to the taking of … and protection of migratory fish, Chap. 244 of laws of 1874; … the Land Agent to … sales of public lands; also the expediency of the law imposing … the expense of building and maintaining bridges on county roads, giving a person who labors on a farm … in the production of the farm, … of 1874 relating to payments of … of Indians.

A Lumber Monopoly

Senator Hall presented a bill to incorporate the Parlin … Lumber Manufacturing Company, which … As the bill contains some provisions seemingly of an extraordinary character and … of Senators … the bill was shoved through … to call attention to some of its provisions that may lead to the Senate going back on its action. The bill first proposes to incorporate John H. Burleigh, Geo. W. Burleigh, … Banks, John Hall, … Z. R. Folsom, Trafton Hatch, Geo. Bucholder, Thomas … Thomas G. Dainton and G. The corporation is then authorized to manufacture lumber and such other articles as may be convenient therewith, with powers to purchase and sell such articles, and to lease, purchase and hold such personal and real estate as may be deemed expedient, also to make by-laws, also to build and maintain dams on the Magalloway river or any other streams or rivers connected therewith, where they may deem necessary for the driving of logs, and charge toll on logs not to exceed thirty cents per M for any one dam. The corporation is to have a capital stock of $50,000 with liberty to increase the same to $100,000. Authority is also provided that the company issue its bonds for construction and manufacturing purposes to an amount not exceeding $40,000 of such tenor and upon such terms and time as the stockholders may determine, and secure the same by mortgage upon the property of the company. The act is to take effect when approved by the Governor.

Pensions for Soldier Orphans

An act was introduced authorizing pensions for soldiers and seamen's orphans in the Portland Female Orphan Asylum and the Children's Home in Bangor. It provides for a pension to children under sixteen years of $8 per month provided they do not now receive a pension, and places the execution of the proposed law in the hands of the Governor and Council, who are to regulate the proof required to entitle applicants to its benefit.

An act was reported to allow the city of Bangor to take water from any point in the Penobscot river between Treat's Falls in Veazie and the head of McMahon's Island, and gives that city power to erect and maintain a dam at the same point across that river. It authorizes the laying down of pipes. The rights, powers and authorities given to Bangor by the act are given to that city subject to certain restrictions, duties and liabilities. The act is not to take effect or be in force until the City Council accept it by a two-thirds vote, and then it is to be submitted to a popular vote, which also requires approval by two-thirds of the legal voters for it to go into operation.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

FORTY-THIRD CONGRESS—Second Session.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.

Senate not in session.

House.

Immediately after the House was called to order, the clerk proceeded to read the journal, omitting to read the yeas and nays in detail, when Mr. Randall of Pennsylvania immediately raised the point of order that they must be read. After a long debate the Speaker decided that the point was well taken and directed the clerk to read the journal.

Mr Randall insisted on the details of the votes in the journal being read and it was so ordered. Mr Randall said his object was to consume the whole day to prevent notice being given of a motion to change the rules. The reading is progressing.

LATER—ADJOURNMENT

The proceedings in the House were brought to a close at 1.30 P. M. by adjournment, on motion of Mr Butler of Massachusetts. Up to that time nothing was heard in the House but the voice of the reading clerk drawling out the names of the members who had voted on the various motions during the filibustering proceedings. Several Democrats kept scanning over the record containing the official report of the proceedings to see that the clerk did not skip any name or omit anything. In this way some seventeen or eighteen roll-calls had been read … that it would have … until night on Sunday before the journal would have been concluded.

A motion to adjourn made by Eldridge of Wisconsin was voted down simply because it came from the Democratic side, but … the same motion was made by Butler and carried.

That was the easiest and shortest way of disposing of the long journal of Wednesday's proceedings, and when the House meets on Monday the only journal to be read will be a few lines of to-day's proceedings.

During the day an attempt was made to have a bill passed to pay the interest on the 3-65 bonds of the District of Columbia but Holman of Indiana objected and it consequently failed.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Perilous Situation of a Passenger Train

BOSTON, Jan. 30. The 7.30 inward train on the New York and New England Railroad had a remarkable escape from a terrible disaster this morning. The train was approaching this city at a rapid rate down a grade ninety feet to the mile, with an embankment from thirty to forty feet high, when the locomotive jumped the track. The strain broke the connecting rods of the driving wheels and severed the water pipes, so that the engine was soon enveloped in steam. The engineer whistled down brakes and hung to the throttle-valve. In about forty rods the train was brought to a stand still and five car-loads of passengers were saved. That the train should have run so far without going down the embankment on either side is most singular and fortunate. The engine is badly used up, but little damage to the train.

THE PACIFIC MAIL SUBSIDY.

Smith vs Irwin

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. The Ways and Means Committee resumed the Pacific Mail subsidy investigation this morning. Joseph D. Smith, a Director of the Pacific Mail Co., explicitly contradicted the statements made by Irwin last Wednesday imputing to him some knowledge of Irwin's engagement by Stockwell and Irwin's receipts of the expenditure of money. Mr Smith gave in detail a denial of some of Irwin's statements. He said it was … that Stockwell was to spend between $3000 and $4000 to forward the Company's interest and subsidy, and swore that Irwin was never known to the Board in any other capacity or employment than as the San Francisco agent.

Mr. Ordway's Books.

Sergeant-at-arms Ordway produced his books and said he had made a careful examination of every credit to members of Congress during the months of May and June 1872 and found that only thirteen members made a deposit of any sum during those months amounting to $100 and of these thirteen only two were credited with more than $500 and that neither of those members voted for the Pacific Mail Subsidy.

No Corruption Money

He did not find a single entry of $1,… to the credit of … during those two months … amounts ranged from $100 to $500 and were mostly drafts deposited in the … course of business for collection. He therefore stated in the most positive manner that to the best of his knowledge and belief the books of the Sergeant at Arms will not disclose anything that will aid the investigation now before the Committee. Ordway also swore that there never had been, to his knowledge, one dollar paid to any member of Congress in or through his office to influence legislation during the eleven years he had been in office.

Irwin again on the Stand

Richard B. Irwin was recalled, and having asked for the reading of Smith's testimony this morning declared that according to his recollection every word in his (Irwin's) testimony was strictly true. He thought he had told Smith enough to enable him to follow up the matter. The chairman then informed Irwin that the committee yesterday decided to allow Clark Bell, counsel for the Pacific Mail Company, to ask him such questions as they might deem unobjectionable. Beck expressed surprise and said if he had been present at the meeting, he should have objected to it or to any similar request from any outsider. Mr Bell asked Mr Irwin a number of questions mainly relating to the character of the instructions given Irwin by Stockwell but nothing particular was elicited. A recess was taken.

King Requested to Appear or Resign

ST PAUL, Minn., Jan. 30. A resolution passed the House to-day requesting Wm. S. King to appear and testify before the Congressional Committee as to his alleged connection with the Pacific Mail Subsidy or to send his resignation as Representative to Congress to the Governor.

THE LOUISIANA INQUIRY.

Gov. Kellogg's Testimony.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 30. Gov. Kellogg's testimony yesterday was very long, and was based on the theory that the condition of affairs in Louisiana was the result of prolonged hostility to the reconstruction acts of Congress, commencing with the inauguration of the Warmoth government. He introduced copies of the resolutions passed in public meetings in New Orleans, denouncing that Government as an usurpation founded on unconstitutional acts of Congress, and calling upon the young men to form in military companies, and arm and drill to oppose that usurpation. By way of a summary, he asserted that Frank P. Blair's Brodhead letter, brought about the alleged massacres of Republicans in 1868, and Judge Bradley's decision releasing the Grant Parish prisoners, and virtually deciding the Ku-Klux acts of Congress to be inoperative, brought about the troubles of 1874.

Bennett was an old man 60 years of age, afflicted only with softening of the brain. His son is one of the prominent clergymen of Brooklyn. Middleton is now confined in a close cell.

THE PIERMONT TRAGEDY.

MURDER OF MRS. EMERSON.

EXAMINATION OF THE ACCUSED.

THE HUSBAND'S TESTIMONY.

The Examination at Haverhill

HAVERHILL, N. H., Jan. 30. The examination of Moses B. Sawyer, suspected of the murder of Mrs Emerson at Piermont was commenced here yesterday, Solicitor Putnam with assistant counsel acting for the Attorney General in his absence. The defence is conducted by S. H. George of Concord, C. H. Dole and F. I. Morrill of Boston. The court house was thronged and intense excitement prevailed.

Dr Dolby testified that the posture of the body indicated that Mrs Emerson died without intimation of her fate and that the gun must have had a considerable elevation when fired as shown by the height where the shot struck the wall.

John Flanders testified hearing report of the gun and hastening to the scene when he met Sawyer on the way. Asked him what had occurred three times before Sawyer replied, when he said "Jenny's wife has shot herself, blown her head all to pieces." Went to Emerson's house and then to summon the neighbors.

Mr Blodgett testified that he started for … and met him and Sawyer on the … Sawyer was supporting him … and … took hold of his other arm and they returned to the house. Sawyer said Mrs Emerson must have committed suicide. There was no indication of unkind feeling between the two men.

The examination was continued this forenoon, the Court House being filled to its utmost capacity and the excitement as intense as yesterday. The witness called was Mr Morrill of Amesbury, Mass., who testified to having known Sawyer for many years, that he had the reputation of being a very kindly quiet inoffensive man, that such was the opinion of those who knew him there. He had known nothing in particular … when he went to Lowell.

The Husband's Testimony

The next witness was John L. Emerson, husband of the deceased, who testified … his residence for the last three years had been in Lowell and worked for Dr Jennness, except a few weeks when he worked for Mr Streeter. First became acquainted with Miss Almira Merrill two years last spring; were married in Lowell October 17th, 1874, and came to Piermont … three or four weeks after we were married. … Sawyer knew Mr Merrill before … work for Dr Jennness. Sawyer … at Piermont the day after we came … and stopped two or three days … father's most of the time until a week ago last Monday … Monday before my wife was killed. He was there … he wanted to come to my house … before he went back to Lowell … I thought he might as well … and stay with us then as at any other time.

The Gun Loaded to Shoot a Cat

He came home with me and that night my brother's gun which … was going away and wished me to take care of it. My wife went the next day to her father's and returned Wednesday afternoon. This gun was loaded Wednesday night; there was a cat my wife wished to have killed, and it was loaded for that purpose. I told her I didn't wish to kill it and Sawyer said … If you will load the gun I will shoot it. I loaded the gun and he said he would shoot it on the first opportunity. It was in the evening and the gun was put back in the front room. Don't know … anything occurred between Sawyer and my wife on that day. Friday morning I got up and built the fire about six o'clock and went back to bed; don't know what time it was when I got up and dressed … the kitchen with the door open. Sawyer's … the front room adjoining the kitchen. The gun was in the north … room … about the house and went to the barn and milked. … before breakfast Sawyer … up when I first went to the barn.

The Morning of the Tragedy

After breakfast went to the barn to take care of the … four or five pails … talked and laughed with my wife … a while went to the barn to water the stock … cut holes in the … went back to the barn and turned out the cattle … Was going from the barn … to another stall when I heard the report … I was doing nothing when … Don't know how long it was after I went to the barn the last time before I heard the report of the gun—anywhere from half to three-quarters of an hour. … My married life was very pleasant and happy. My wife always spoke to those she met … pleasant … Never … unpleasant word … passed between us from the time our acquaintance begun.

Cross-Examined

My relations with Sawyer while in Lowell were always pleasant. I don't think he … much … but sometimes would speak jocosely. I invited him before we were married to come and see me. Sawyer came to Piermont three or four weeks after I was married. He came the first of the week. When asked if … he was not glad to see Sawyer, replied that he was not very glad to see him as he had not completed all his housekeeping arrangements. After coming out of the door of my house and hollering to Sawyer my mind was a blank till I was carried to Uncle Frank's that afternoon.

Important Testimony—No Appearance of Suicide

Mrs Eveline P. Munson, residing next door to Emerson's, testified that she was about starting in a sleigh for Bradford when a voice called to her husband and they drove up to Emerson's. Went in at South door, there was no living person in the house. Found the body of Mrs Emerson in a chair at the North side of the stove.

A Threaded Needle

was held between the thumb and finger of the right hand; the eye of the needle held perfectly natural for taking a stitch. Both hands had dropped into her lap. Her work was either a sleeve or a pocket. Didn't examine very closely. A dust-pan was produced showing marks of six dents made by shot. It is supposed witness said it was hanging under a mantle back of the stove. When I went into the room I went by her to lay my shawl on the sofa. Saw pieces of the skull and of the brains on the West end of the sofa. The main part of the brains were on the rug in front of the stove, another portion was in the southeast corner of the room, and the rest of the room was all spattered.

The Court here adjourned till 1 30 P. M.

Thurlow Weed in a letter to the Tribune says that Andrew Johnson in the Senate will probably be a watch-dog over the Treasury. Congressman James B. Beck of Kentucky is reported as saying of Andy "I am afraid he will be too retrospective for the glory of the Democracy."

A TERRIBLE FIRE. The Beauport Female Lunatic Asylum, on the Montmorency road near Quebec, was burned Friday night, and three patients were burned to death. The remainder, forty-three in number, were removed safely to the asylum occupied by the males. The scenes during the fire were heartrending and pitiful. Some of the patients rushed into the corners and obstinately refused to be removed. Others fled down the corridors into the darkest cellars and were found shivering with fear. Others ran into the cupola and out onto the roof, and it was only with the greatest difficulty they could be rescued. It is supposed the fire originated in the …

SHADOWS.

BY LOUISE Y. HOYT.

A dream of shadows, a shadowy dream,
Flash to my soul from some far-off shore,
A picture we've recked, the world has lost,
Have resurrection in time once more

I see the Daughter of Cleon's House,
Rosy radiant in girlhood's glee,
And the breath of the flowers she dallies with,
Carried to fabulous floats over me.

Entranced, I listed to Sappho's song,
See Sappho's heart knew how to sigh,
Where all every moonbeam's kiss the shore,
The sea-waves dance to joyance by.

Anon, in a bower with blossoms bright,
A exhibit, old Egypt's Queen, at rest
I see, and she starts 'fa butterfly
With its silken wing, brushes her breast.

O heartbreak the dreary recollen,
And Oh, how with its horrors dread will rise,
With the beautiful flirt so dear to Art,
And the poet's dream of thine agonies.

The vision fades, and the Queen of the Nile
Shrinks not away from the serpent's sting,
While Sappho, the sobbing her last love lay,
Takes from the sea-side the fatal spring.

All! dreary to-day is this winter day,
And the world of the present has many an ill,
And, musing, I marvel which is the why
Most time grists of the old world grow o us still?

Ghost-dreams of shadows, shadowy dreams!
Only back, or to look to my spirit's ken?
Shall it be bright as of Hion elsium
For me may arise but no again

QUININE HAIR TONIC.

Something which has long been needed.

Every one who has had a severe case of dandruff, or suffering of the brain or some nervous disorder of the head resulting from the use of baby's cream or some compound lead, sulphur, or other mineral substance, will find these preparations always attended with the most gratifying results. Where these preparations are not attended with that gratifying result, they are in an undisputed fact, they are not, and should not be used. Where they are used for dressing the hair. Where they have been used, and where it is desired to use the preparation like Bayolin, which is a preparation of the compound, whether it is employed, blameless, or with impunity. Bayolin is a pure and harmless hair dressing. It is the hair from falling out, promotes the growth of the hair, and makes it soft, and not greasy or sticky, as it does not, and stimulates a supply of rich, nutritious food and comfort obtained by any other preparation for its intended purposes. It never becomes settled.

Only 35 Cents. An unfailing Remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis, Influenza, Soreness of the Throat, Chest and Lungs, and all diseases leading to Consumption.

$5000 for an Incurable Case.

[From a Distinguished Lawyer of Boston.]

MR. FRANK KINMAN. Dear Sir—I desire to say a word in behalf of your Adamson's Cough Balsam. I have been a sufferer from a very severe cough from the first of last November, having a great many prescriptions without any considerable or permanent improvement, until the middle of March, when a friend brought me a bottle of your Balsam. I used the small sample bottle which Mr. Goodrich gave me, and I had no occasion to try any more, for within twelve hours from taking the first dose, the cough entirely left me. The result seemed indeed less than miraculous. I have spent more than a score of sufferers to Mr Goodrich's No 5 Hanover street, for the remedy, and, so far as I learn in every instance effected a cure.

Respectfully yours, CHAS. C. NUTTER.
[Firm Nutter & Soule, Attorneys and Counsellors at Law, 31 Tremont St.]
